

When viewing the pop up slider on a 13' display (one of the most popular screen sizes) and with 100% resolution in the browser.

The element takes up most of my screen real estate.

When using other screens like an external display of 23' It looks great.

Is it possible to scale down the size in this particular breakpoint to make it smaller and occupy less space on the screen?

